

Lady Jane Grey

With Patrick Russell

Portrait of LJG at Syon House

The 'Nine Day Queen' was proclaimed in the Long Gallery at Syon in July 1553 and had a short, but tragic life. History portrays her as a pawn in a man's world, but she was highly-educated and had a considerable intellect for a woman of her tender years. The tour will look at her brief life and important connections with Syon House.

