

The Percy lion once stood proudly on top of Northumberland House in the Strand. When the building was knocked down in 1874 to make way for redevelopment and the building of Charing Cross station the lion was moved and placed on top of Syon House where you will find him today.

The story behind his tail.....